DANGEROUS WINTER STORM ALERT for Thursday, December 24 through Friday, December 25!

Per the National Weather Service: "Stay inside and enjoy Christmas!" Travel is strongly discouraged from Thursday evening overnight through Friday morning. Travel will be dangerous to nearly impossible throughout all of Northeast Kansas (including Topeka/Lawrence Metro and Kansas City Metro Areas). Blizzard-like conditions including blowing and falling snow will make driving hazardous and visibility limited.

REMEMBER Drivers: Stay SAFE, stay off the roads, stay inside!

From Oklahoma DOT: Travel throughout Oklahoma discouraged. Interstates gridlocked with collisions in OKC metro. The interstates and turnpikes in Oklahoma were shut down earlier this evening due to ongoing blizzard conditions.

Current Weather Forecast:

Northeast Kansas, including Topeka/Lawrence Metro Area

Tonight: Snow and widespread blowing snow. The snow could be heavy at times. Low around 13. Wind chill values between -1 and -6. Windy, with a north wind between 30 and 35 mph, with gusts as high as 45 mph. Chance of precipitation is 100%. Total nighttime snow accumulation of 4 to 8 inches possible.

Christmas Day: Snow likely and areas of blowing snow. Cloudy, with a high near 20. Wind chill values between -7 and 2. Windy, with a west wind between 25 and 30 mph, with gusts as high as 40 mph. Chance of precipitation is 60%. New snow accumulation of less than a half inch possible.

Friday Night: A 40 percent chance of snow. Cloudy, with a low around 14. Wind chill values between -3 and 2. Breezy, with a west wind between 20 and 25 mph, with gusts as high as 30 mph.

THE NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE IN TOPEKA HAS ISSUED A BLIZZARD WARNING...WHICH IS IN EFFECT UNTIL 6 PM CST FRIDAY.

Timing...heavy snow will continue through the night.

Total snow accumulations...snowfall accumulations of 6 to 10 inches will be possible by Friday afternoon...with locally higher amounts possible.

Wind...north wind will increase to 35 to 40 mph with gusts as high as 50 mph tonight and Friday. This will result in reduced visibility under one quarter mile to near zero at times with blizzard conditions.

Wind chill...wind chill readings will be from five to fifteen below zero on Friday.

Impacts...travel will become extremely difficult tonight through Friday. Drifting of snow across roadways is likely.

Precautionary/preparedness actions...remember...a blizzard warning means severe winter weather conditions are imminent or highly likely. Any travel is strongly discouraged. If you leave the safety of being indoors...you are putting your life at risk.

Greater Kansas City Metro Area

Tonight: Snow and widespread blowing snow. Low around 17. Wind chill values between -2 and 8. Windy, with a north northwest wind between 25 and 32 mph, with gusts as high as 41 mph. Chance of precipitation is 100%. Total nighttime snow accumulation of 3 to 7 inches possible.

Christmas Day: Snow likely and areas of blowing snow. Cloudy, with a high near 22. Wind chill values between -2 and 7. Blustery, with a west northwest wind between 22 and 28 mph, with gusts as high as 37 mph. Chance of precipitation is 70%. New snow accumulation of 1 to 2 inches possible.

Friday Night: A chance of snow. Cloudy, with a low around 19. Breezy, with a west wind between 20 and 24 mph, with gusts as high as 33 mph. Chance of precipitation is 40%.

BLIZZARD WARNING

THE NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE IN KANSAS CITY/PLEASANT HILL HAS ISSUED A BLIZZARD WARNING...WHICH IS IN EFFECT UNTIL 6 PM CST FRIDAY.

Precipitation has transitioned to all snow across areas along and west of a St. Joseph to Maryville line while a mix of freezing rain...sleet and snow is occurring east of this line. A transition to snow with occasional sleet mixing at times will take place late this afternoon becoming all snow tonight.

Snow will increase in coverage and intensity tonight as the storm system approaches. Snow and blowing snow will likely continue into Friday morning with total snowfall accumulations through Friday afternoon ranging from 5 to 8 inches from Butler Missouri and Pleasanton Kansas northward to the Kansas City metro. North of this...snow accumulations may be in the 7 to 10 inch range.

Strong northwest to west winds are developing and will persist through Friday...with sustained winds of 25 to 30 mph with gusts of 35 to 40 mph. This will create extensive blowing and drifting snow with blizzard conditions.

Travel will be extremely dangerous through the overnight hours and into tomorrow morning. Very difficult travel conditions are expected through Friday...with periods of blowing snow significantly reducing visibilities to less than one quarter mile at times. Persons planning on traveling for the holiday should consider making alternative plans.

Precautionary/preparedness actions...a blizzard warning means severe winter weather conditions are expected or occurring. Falling and blowing snow with strong winds and poor visibilities are likely. This will lead to whiteout conditions...making travel extremely dangerous. Do not travel. If you must travel...have a winter survival kit with you. If you get stranded...stay with your vehicle.

Current Road Conditions

Snow continues to fall throughout all of northeast Kansas. KDOT crews are on the roadways treating and plowing constantly. However due to the blowing/gusting winds, heavy falling snow and the dropping temps, drifting is a huge problem and it is proving to be extremely difficult to get roadways cleared and keep them that way. It will be this way throughout the overnight hours and into the day tomorrow. See the chart below for current roadway conditions for individual northeast Kansas counties.

Driver Safety Tips

Please remind DRIVERS if they must travel about tonight and tomorrow to:

1. Take it SLOW!
2. Allow plenty of extra drive time.
3. Watch for icy/slick spots on the roadway; don't assume that if the pavement looks clear, that it is.
4. Buckle up every passenger, every time.
5. If they get stranded, to stay with their vehicle and call *47 on a state highway/interstate route (any highway that begins with I-, K-, and US-), *KTA on the Kansas Turnpike, or #911 at anytime.

For travel throughout the evening and overnight hours, drivers should use extreme caution, allow plenty of driving time, buckle up (every passenger, every time) and be sure to turn on their headlights, and turn off their cruise control. Drivers should also provide for a safe distance or cushion between themselves and vehicles ahead of them.

We also want to remind drivers to stay a safe distance back from KDOT snow plows, and if drivers should pass the snow plows, to be extra careful and allow plenty of room as the trucks do travel slower than surrounding traffic.
